FARM BOYS' ENCAMPMENT

One Representative From Each County Will Be Included—Selection by Competitive Examination.

Each succeeding year brings new features to the Kentucky State Fair, some in point of instruction, others in point of amusement. This year the newest, and one of the best features ever planned by the fair management, is the holding of a Farm Boys' Encampment during the week of the fair.

It is planned to have one boy from each of the 120 counties in the state in the encampment. This will give one representative boy from each county a chance to see and to study the best that is possible in the way of live stock, farm products, improved methods, improved machinery, and in fact every appliance and tool in use, on an up-to-date farm.

The knowledge and educational benefit derived from this camp of instruction will be spread broadcast throughout the entire state. The selection of the boys will be made on a competitive examination of essays by a committee composed of the county school superintendent, a member of the state board of agriculture and a member of the faculty of the Agricultural college. The applicant must be between the age of 15 and 18 years, and must reside and work on the farm. The essay to be submitted by them is to consist of not less than 400 and not more than 600 words, upon the subject of "Our Home Farm." The essay must be in the hands of the committee before the 20th of August. The applicant whose essay receives the highest standing will be entitled to a free trip to the Kentucky State Fair from each county.

In addition to free transportation, lodging and meals at the fair grounds will be furnished. The boys will be met at the railway station in Louisville by competent guides, who will take them to the fair grounds, at which place they will be under the immediate supervision of Prof. T. R. Bryant, of the Agricultural college.

Historic Blackguards

By
Albert Payson Terhune

Gen. Charles Lee—The Traitor Who Threatened America

GEN. WASHINGTON and his staff thundered up, through the boiling summer heat, to the stricken battlefield of Monmouth. News had reached the commander-in-chief that his trusted leader, Gen. Charles Lee, had deserted and that as a result, the American army was retreating.

Washington took in the situation at a glance. The patriots were falling back. The British were everywhere successful. His blue eyes ablaze with anger, the chief galloped across to Lee.

"In heaven's name, General," he shouted, "what means this ill-timed prudence?"

"I know of no one," sneered Lee, "who has more of that abominable virtue than your excellency."

At this retort the last barriers of Washington's patience gave way. He hurled at Lee a public reprimand that the latter never forgot nor forgave. It was a case of a just man's wrath at a blackguard's misdeeds.

Charles Lee was born in England in 1731. He joined the British army as a mere child. At the age of eleven he was a commissioned officer. He fought in America during the French and Indian war and rose fast in rank to a lieutenant-colonelcy. But he had a sarcastic tongue and an unbecomingly temper. He criticized his superior officers and made fun of their weaknesses. This sort of thing does not help a man on in any walk of life. It led at last to Lee's practical dismissal from the army. He drifted to Poland and Russia, where, serving as a soldier of fortune, he received the rank of major-general. He also won doubtful fame as a ferocious duelist.

Leaving Russia, Lee came to America a short time before the Revolution. He hated England and he loved intrigue. So he plunged into the stirring politics of the day, siding with the patriots. The Revolutionary army was short of experienced officers and was delighted to accept the services of so noted a soldier as Lee. He was offered the rank of second major-general under General Washington. He bargained shrewdly with congress before accepting this honor, declaring that King George's government would surely confiscate his British estates, and demanding to be paid for the congress agreed to give him $50,000 out of the impoverished patriot treasury as recompense for this possible loss.

Now began Lee's American military career. From the first he seems to have had two aims. One, to seize Washington's position as commander-in-chief; the other, to sell the American cause, at the best possible terms, to the British. After more than once risking the army's welfare by disobeying Washington's orders, Lee was captured at Basking Ridge, N. J., by the British. Whether or not he consented to the capture in order to carry out his treason plot cannot be known. But during his captivity (most of which he spent in a suite of rooms in New York City Hall) he came to terms of understanding with the British general, Howe, and explained to him his ideas on how best to crush the Revolution. Thinking he would be of more use to them in the Revolutionary army than in prison, the British set him free in 1778 and he went back to his duties. (The complete draft of Lee's plan, by which the colonies might be overthrown, was found in 1857 among General Howe's private papers.)

Then came the battle of Monmouth. The English, under Clinton, in June, 1778, evacuated Philadelphia and retreated across New Jersey to the British headquarters at New York. Washington resolved to smash part of the British army at Monmouth, N. J., on its march. Lee begged him not to make the attempt, but Washington sent him with an advance guard of 6,000 men to undertake the enemy. Lee caught up with the British at Monmouth on June 28, 1778, and began the battle in so strange and incompetent a way that Lafayette, in alarm, sent a secret message begging Washington to hurry to the front. Washington arrived in time to meet Lee in full retreat. He rebuked the traitor, rallied the army and saved the day.

No one could understand Lee's odd behavior, for no one then knew he was false. In rage at the rebuke, he wrote two insulting letters to Washington, who promptly ordered him arrested. A court-martial suspended him from active service for a year. In rage, he retired to a mountain hut, where, for months, he lived like a hermit.

As his year of suspension drew to an end, Lee wrote an abusive letter to congress, and was at once disallowed from the army. He went to live on an estate he had bought in the Shennandoah Valley. In 1782 he visited Philadelphia, where he fell ill and died.

Improved Educational Conditions From an Investment Standpoint

By JOHN B. McFERRAN, Chairman Educational Committee, Louisville Commercial Club

STUDYING the educational situation in the state, I am more and more impressed with the absolute necessity for a radical change in our viewpoint concerning the subject. We have been viewing the schools rather as a necessary evil, an expense to be kept at the minimum of cost. The logical result has been largely attained—cheap houses, cheap grounds, cheap equipment and in too many cases cheap teachers, cheap trustees, cheap county boards and cheap county superintendents.

In fact, so long has this policy prevailed that we have dwarfed everything pertaining to our schools, even our educators, and most of all ourselves, the average citizens. The whole outfit is a cheap and inadequate thing for the twentieth century. OUR SLIPSHOD AND CHAOTIC SYSTEM, IF SYSTEM IT CAN BE CALLED, POSSIBLY ANSWERED FAIRLY WELL THE NEEDS OF FORTY OR FIFTY YEARS AGO, but everything else has moved tremendously within that time and moved with the greatest celerity and momentum.

With our schools here in Kentucky we have practically stood still, standing to looker some other mysterious power to supplement our indifference and neglect. Not so with other more prosperous and progressive states fully recognizing the value and importance of their children. With enlightened zeal and intelligence their tendency has been to crowd all the money into their schools that could be judiciously raised, looking upon it as a wise, businesslike proposition, a most profitable investment, and so it has proved, states younger and no more favorably situated, with really inferior natural resources, surpassing us in material wealth two and three fold.

BEFORE WE CAN MAKE THE NEEDED AND DESIRED PROGRESS WE MUST GET THE VIEWPOINT THAT IT IS NOT ONLY OUR HIGH AND HOLY DUTY, BUT MOST PROFITABLE, TO SEE OUR CHILDREN AND THEIR SCHOOLS FROM THE INVESTMENT SIDE AND PROVIDE GENEROUSLY THE FINANCIAL AID THAT IS IMPERATIVELY NEEDED.

Furthermore, we must awaken out of our apathy and see that this money is used to the best advantage and not frittered away by incompetence or graft. We have been furnishing two and a half to three million dollars per annum for our schools for a number of years.

to know how this money was being expended? There seems to have been great waste. WE HAVE ALLOWED THE INTEREST OF OUR CHILDREN TO DRIFT INTO POLITICS AND INTO CONFUSION. IT IS HIGH TIME TO CORRECT THIS.

ROAD IMPROVEMENT.

Why the City Resident Gains as Much as the Farmer.

BAD ROADS AFFECT MARKET.

Products That Would Reach the Cities if the Highways Were Good Are Held Back and Go into the Hands of the Speculator.

In many respects there is a certain amount of evidence in the different phases of our physical condition. This is more apparent in our country roads than almost any other, says the St. Louis News. The system of road building has been fairly as well as costly. Much expense has been put upon the common roads year after year, and still there are seasons when most roads are in an unfit condition for general purposes. This is not the fault of poor roads, but of inadequate maintenance. Much of course is due to the narrowness of the country and the consequent demand for labor and cost in making farms, building bridges and otherwise attending to what may properly be regarded of prime importance. As the country advances in other respects the necessity for good roads becomes more insistent.

A few thoughts upon this subject from a prominent citizen of Michigan may not be amiss: "If the condition of the country were brought to a condition that would enable farmers to market their products at all seasons of the year, the cost of living in town and city would be greatly lessened, and discontent among laboring people and the operatives of industrial concerns would largely decrease if it did not entirely disappear. Why and how are the two questions which must be answered."

"Present road conditions compel farmers to rush their products to market as soon as harvested and when roads are at their best, since by waiting a convenient time they may not get there at all because of bad roads. This naturally causes the market, forcing low prices, to the great detriment of the producer and without appreciable benefit to the consumer, because the average family in town or city buys only its small quantities at one time, say a day's or a week's supply. What is the result?"

"The speculator, finding prices low and knowing that in a little while the bad roads season will be over, when competing products will be brought from the trade centers, buys up the surplus and stores it away for the day of necessity, when he can command and receive his own price for his holdings—the stuff for which men die, which they are compelled to have at whatever cost. And when the winter comes the mechanic and operative of shops and factory—so they say in winter and spring to pay exorbitant prices for these articles of household necessity which went begging for buyers at low prices the preceding fall he figures the increased cost of living in comparison and grows restless and discontented. The resident of the city is the gainer by good roads just as much as the farmer."

Missouri and Good Roads.

There are 125,000 miles of roads in Missouri. On 10 per cent of the miles, however, is carried 90 per cent of the business transportation. While all roads need to be improved, the largest need is of course upon the main travel highways, says the Motor News.

The cost of good roads was estimated at the Chillicothe convention differed by different members. Largely it was a question of material available, in the various localities. From Boone county came a report that gravel roads were under construction at $1,700 a mile. This was a conservative estimate. After a dirt road had been put in well settled condition it could be kept in good condition. It was demonstrated, by the use of the drag at practically normal expense. It is not to be wondered at, therefore, with its demand for a new constitution and for the training of good engineers, that the convention adopted a resolution favoring legislation looking toward the more general employment of the drag. "The best road material," it was decided, "was men and money, and taxes and competent engineers."

The state board of agriculture is planning to follow up the Chillicothe convention with other conventions in different towns. The good roads campaign in Missouri is on in earnest.

Michigan's Road Program.

State Highway Commissioner Harris of Michigan reports that during the seventeen months his department has been in existence fifty-two miles of stone road have been built. It is not of first class gravel road and enough clay gravel had to be made ninety and one-fourth miles. The total value of all the roads constructed was $102,477. The state has paid for completed roads $61,524, and the value of the roads completed is $77,952. The widest piece of road constructed is the stone road from Lansing to the Agricultural college.

New Road Cement.

Experiments in England have shown that the use of a mortar-like cement in road building will render the highway more durable and almost dustless. This suggests the building of a new phase to the eternal conflict between horsemen and motorists, says the Motor News. While a smooth road of intermediate surface would be ideal for automobile traffic, it would be injurious to horses. The ultimate hope of the motorists, therefore, seems to be the crowding out of the horse by the motor vehicle.

We all know what happened to Kipling's hero who "tried to hustle the east" but that does not deter Gov. Hiram Johnson from attempting the task.

Approximately 26,000,000 persons will be eligible to vote in the United States next November, including the man who is too lazy to make up his mind.

The United States has 14,000,000 of the 22,000,000 telephones in the world, and the average earnings of each telephone amounted to $32. This shows that talk is no longer cheap.

Boston is also thinking of a municipal market to discourage the high cost of living. Boston people would like to do something with their wages besides buying beans and cod fish.

Mr. CHAFFIN, who is, as you may remember, the nominee of the prohibition party for president, says that he expects to poll 1,000,000 votes. The expecting is particularly good all around this year.

PERHAPS the balks of the country will welcome the McAdoo plan, under which they are asked to receive and forward campaign contributions, as being a relief from making contributions themselves.

CONGRESS passed the postal measure, and the law will be put in effect as soon as the details can be worked out. It is thought this will prove one of the best things given the people in a long while, effecting great savings, serving everyone, whether on a railroad or not, and will at the same time be a source of income to the government.

By a recent order of the Postmaster General all first and second class postoffices in the country will be closed on Sunday, and only special delivery letters will be handled. For some time there has been a lessening of the work done on Sunday, and it has been found that the service has not suffered; this last order meets the approval of most of the people, and it is likely that in time the order will be extended to include postoffices of all classes.

M. Louis Dor, the French delegate to the International Institute of Agriculture in Rome, and vice president of the Institute, has published a pamphlet reviewing the history of this remarkable body, and predicting the lines of its future development. Fifty countries now adhere to the convention of 1905, and contribute a total of $100,000 a year to the maintenance of the Institute, while the King of Italy, from his private means, contributes $60,000, and has given the Institute a splendid building in Rome. Besides the world wide crop reporting service—which has been the dominant feature of the enterprise from the beginning—many other lines of work are carried out on a vast scale. Probably one of the most important is the collection and abstracting of agricultural literature from every corner of the world. The voluminous publications issued by the Institute during the last two or three years include, besides its polyglot periodicals, many exhaustive reports on special subjects, e. g., the crop-reporting systems of the different countries, the organization of agricultural meteorology, statistics of soil insurance, etc., etc.

THE APPLE experts prophesy for this year the immense crop of five million barrels for commercial purposes. Last year in July they said it would be about twenty nine million barrels, and it fell a little short of thirty millions, so accurate has crop prediction become. Nor do the experts stop with forecasts for this year. They estimate that in the wonderful apple-raising region of the northwest, the crop this year will be about eighteen thousand carloads of a hundred and sixty barrels to the car; and that the present rate of increase and development will result in forty to fifty thousand carloads in 1915, and a hundred and twenty to a hundred and forty thousand car loads in 1920.

Capt. Henry B. Grant, grand secretary of the Masonic Lodge of Kentucky, died at his home in Louisville early Monday morning, after an illness of two weeks from pneumonia. He was one of Kentucky's most noted citizens, active and prominent in many avenues, and he will be widely missed.

Catarrh

It is not necessary to describe at length the symptoms of nasal catarrh; every one is quite familiar with them. Catarrh may vary greatly in severity from the occasional "cold in the head" which comes and passes, and is regarded by many people as an inevitable experience of the winter, to a serious chronic and purulent catarrh, which is often called incurable, but which can be either cured or ameliorated by proper treatment.

When the ordinary catarrhal cold does not yield to treatment and disappear, but threatens to run on indefinitely, a specialist should be asked to make a thorough examination, not only of the nose and throat but of ears and teeth as well. Septic reinfection may occur from any of these sources; a discharging middle ear or decaying teeth may prolong a nasal catarrh indefinitely.

Permanent catarrh is also caused by incorrect habits of living, especially by insufficient ventilation, particularly in the sleeping room. Most sufferers think their catarrh is due to "exposure", by which they mean too much fresh air; but if they would breathe all the fresh air they can get, avoid crowded rooms, dust, and stuffiness, and learn to sleep with wide open windows, they would be surprised at the powers of resistance they would develop.

But it must be remembered are normal in structure and condition will have fewer colds, even breathing bad air, than one with obstructed passages will have in spite of all the good air in the world. Fresh air is of no use to a person who cannot draw it in.

Victims of catarrh would do well to use only paper handkerchiefs. They are cheap and light, and can be destroyed after each use, a precaution which is not only a matter of justice to others in the family, but a real safeguard to the patient, who otherwise is in constant danger of reinfection.

United States Produces Two-Fifths of World's Output of Coal.

The United States has held first place among the coal-producing countries of the world since 1899, when this country supplanted Great Britain. In 1911 the total world's production of coal amounted to approximately 1,302,500,000 short tons, of which the United States contributed 496,221,168 tons, or 38.1 per cent. according to the United States Geological Survey. In the 12 years from 1899 to 1911 the production of the United States has increased over 250 per cent; from 1899 to 1911 Great Britain has increased its output about 50 per cent, from 198,146,731 to 304,521,195 tons. The United States in 1911 produced almost 500,000,000 tons or 63 per cent more than Great Britain in 1911; Germany's production of coal and lignite in 1899 was 93,640,500 short tons; in 1911 it was 258,223,763 tons, an increase of over 175 per cent. The combined production of Great Britain and Germany in 1911 was 562,744,958 short tons, which exceeded the output of the United States by only 66,500,000 tons, or 13.2 per cent. These three countries United States, Great Britain, and Germany, produce more than 80 per cent of the world's total supply of coal.

THE LINE OF THE SPINE

shown above is the curved line which truthfully presents to your eye the condition of your spine if you use a sewing machine.

The reason for this is the family sewing machine as ordinarily constructed, is altogether wrong. You cannot sit straight in your chair while operating your machine—try it. Sit straight and square as you should, and see if you can sew on your machine; you can't. The needle is 4½ inches from the center where it ought to be. To follow your work you have to twist your body to the left. This twist calls for a wrench and strain of all the delicate chords and ligaments, affecting stomach, spleen, liver, kidneys, bowels and nerves, and resulting in SIDE NEEDLE SPINE.

If it were possible for a growing child to operate an ordinary sewing machine, it would be injured for life. The soft cartilage of its spine would twist and warp, its vital organs would be injured to such an extent as to produce nervous disorders.

In schools, as you know, desks and chairs are specially constructed to avoid spinal curvature.

In factories where sewing machines are used, the work is always directly central with the operator, otherwise they could not stand the strain of the twist of the body and continue to work.

THE STANDARD CENTRAL NEEDLE machine is a new type of family sewing machine designed as a health saver and preventer of doctors' bills.

In this machine the needle is central with the worker—directly over the center of the treadle. To use it call for the twist of the spine, it causes no strain on the internal organs and consequent torture of the nerves.

With THE STANDARD CENTRAL NEEDLE machine a woman is safe in using it all day and every day, without ill effects.

Compare the two pictures—positions taken from life—and decide which you will have—THE SIDE NEEDLE SPINE or THE CENTRAL NEEDLE SPINE.

We have printed a valuable book, "A STITCH IN THE SIDE," which is yours FREE for the asking—and every intelligent woman will want it and will thank us for bringing it to her attention.

It goes into the subject of sewing machine construction thoroughly and explains how and why the STANDARD CENTRAL NEEDLE SEWING MACHINE is vital to the health of woman and growing girls, and how easy it is to buy. If you value your health and the health of your daughters—you will send for a copy at no obligation. It is FREE. A postal will bring it by return mail.

We did not get our only circus last year until Sept. 13, so some folks still have hope.

The oyster season opens Saturday at J. E. Coombs & Co. Fine stock.

The cornerstone of the new Louisville Y. M. C. A. building was laid Tuesday afternoon, many leading men of the city and from over the state witnessing the ceremony. This building will cost about $500,000, and will be one of the finest in the South, having all the latest conveniences.

Window shades, door mats, curtain poles, porch seats, drawer pulls (wood, brass, glass) drapery rods, all sorts of small things for home at Roark's.

Affairs were rather quiet on jockey alley Monday, few sales or exchanges being made.

The mission style of architecture of the jail is now showing up, and is quite attractive, being the first seen hereabouts, and very appealing.

Mr. James Ingram was here from Princeton a few days last week, attending to matters of business interest.

Mr. J. S. Miller is spending the week with his son, Mr. James Miller, at Booneville, Ind.

Get mounts for calendars, mot-tos, etc. at this office.

Night riders are again becoming active in the counties of Trigg, Lyon and Caldwell, and many independent tobacco raisers have received notes warning them to pool their crops. Personal visits have been made to a few, and one or two have been roughly handled. Officers of the various counties are endeavoring to apprehend the leaders, but no arrests have been made.

Hay fever has made its appearance, a few of the most susceptible persons being affected.

Rev. Ford, of the Christian church, assisted by Rev. Hawkins, of Elkton, will begin a protracted revival service next Sunday.

Dies From Stroke On Head.

Will Cash died Friday at his home near Earles from the effects of being struck on the head by Johnny Jordan several days before. It is reported that Cash had been circulating a vile slander on a sister of Jordan, and when the two men met they engaged in a difficulty, in which Cash struck Jordan over the head with a cane. Jordan procured a fence picket and again met Cash, when the trouble was renewed, and Cash was dealt a blow on the head by Jordan, inflicting dangerous injury, and resulting in death. Jordan waived an examining trial Monday morning, and was released on bond of $1,000 to await the action of the grand jury. Jordan has the support of the people of his community, where he bears a good reputation, and has some years provided for his orphaned brothers and sisters. Cash was a quarrelsome man, it is said, and was frequently in trouble.

Sunday, September 8, has been set apart as Temperance Day in the county, and all ministers will deliver addresses showing the evils of whiskey.

Rev. G. H. Lawrence, pastor of the Baptist church at Depoy, will move with his family to this place, where he will place his children in school.

Tri-State Good Roads Meeting.

Prominent persons from Kentucky, Indiana and Tennessee who are interested in good roads will hold a meeting at Mammoth Cave Oct. 4 and 5, at which national figures will make addresses. In addition to the work of the convention, there will be social features, a barbecue being served to all on the last day. Everyone is urged to attend, as this is a movement which should have the hearty support of all. It is predicted that the attendance will be heavy, and that at this meeting interest will be aroused that will put forces at work immediately toward the providing of good roads in the three states represented.

Considerable interest is being aroused in the election of a permanent night watchman, which will be done at the meeting of the council next Monday night. There are two or three applicants.

Death of Mrs. Margaret McCown.

Mrs. Margaret Frances Briggs McCown, widow of Wilson McCown, died at her home near the Depot at 5 o'clock Wednesday morning, from cancer of the stomach, which for many months had kept her in serious condition. For thirty years she had been an invalid, confined to her home from the effects of a fall, in which her hip and arms were broken. In all her afflictions she maintained a cheerful, inspiring nature, and took an active interest in the affairs of the world. She is the last of her family, and leaves only two children, Mrs. Malvenia Adamson, of Owensboro, and Mr. Robert McCown, of this city. There are many other relatives in this and adjoining counties. Funeral services will be conducted by Rev. G. P. Dillon at the Crittenden graveyard at 3 o'clock this afternoon, and the body will be laid to rest beside that of her husband, who died Dec. 10, 1884. Deceased was in her 82nd year.

When the season closes Greenville will have added some several miles more to its concrete pavements, as contracts have been made for vast stretches lately.

A Call To The Ministers.

At a mass meeting of the temperance people of Muhlenberg county, held at the Y. M. C. A. building in Greenville August 25th, 1912, it was decided that Sunday, Sept. 8th, be set apart as a Great Temperance Rally Day in all the churches of the county, both white and colored, and that all ministers of every denomination be requested to preach twice that day on the subject of temperance. Therefore the Muhlenberg County Temperance League urges that all men, women and children unite with the ministers in making this a great day of victory for temperance in the county.

J. L. ROGERS, Cham.

G. T. ANDERSON, Secty.

At last the school girls and boys of the county have a chance to show what they have learned in other things than books. The County Exhibit which is to be made this fall, in Greenville, in connection with the Boys Corn Show will be a great benefit not only to the school children but also to the people of the county.

Mr. J. W. Mitchell last Saturday brought to this office a selection of fine strawberries gathered from vines that have been bearing since May, and which he says promise to produce for some weeks still. This is a new variety of plant, and this is the first year of bearing, and the owner is highly pleased with the returns.

Just a month now until the vote will be taken on the whisky question.

Truant school children are to have a hard time of it this year, as the new law requiring attendance is to be rigidly enforced.

Fish, oysters, celery at J. E. Coombs & Co. Saturday.

The crowd in town to county court last Monday was rather small, as many persons will be compelled to be here next Monday when circuit court begins, and so would not attend both days.

Dr. W. B. Head, from Louisville, and son have returned from a visit of some weeks in Hampton, Va.

Inflammatory Rheumatism.

Acute inflammatory rheumatism attacks people of all ages and conditions, and is dreaded not only because of the intense pain that accompanies it, but also because it often leaves behind it a permanently injured heart. This complication is especially frequent in children. Severe pain, with redness and swelling of the joints, make the diagnosis easy in most cases of inflammatory rheumatism in adults but in young children these symptoms may be too slight to be observed, while at the same time the heart is suffering serious damage.

So called "growing pains" may be the beginning of an attack of acute rheumatism; or a child although it does not give up its play, may complain that there is pain in the soles of its feet when it stands. If these pains are accompanied by the least redness or swelling of any joint, and if there is also fever, the diagnosis of inflammatory rheumatism is clear.

The child should be put at once to bed, and kept there all through the acute stage of the disease. In this way the attack may sometimes be shortened, and the shorter it is the less danger there is of the heart being affected. The medical treatment of the case should be in the hands of a competent physician. Fortunately, there are to-day remedies for the quick control of rheumatism that were unknown a few years ago, when it sometimes ran a course of many weeks.

While the pain is severe, the clothing should be arranged with a view to the greatest possible comfort for the patient. The night dress should be of soft flannel, and should fasten all the way down the front, because the profuse sweats characteristic of this disease make frequent changes necessary. It is well to have a soft blanket under the patient, and the bedclothes must be light, as well as warm. Where the joints are much swollen and very painful, the clothing will have to be lifted away from the body by a wooden cradle. The nurse must be deft and careful, because in the acute stage the least clumsiness may cause the most acute agony, so that even a heavy footfall is dreaded by the patient.

Notice To A. S. of E. Members.

As this has been a remarkable year and the farmers have made an unusual effort to plant a tremendous crop of tobacco and owing to the rain I find by traveling over the county that it will be impossible under the most favorable circumstances for the farmer to reach the barn with more than fifty per cent of last year's yield. Of this it reports be true we will have a greater per cent, of the crop pooled than ever before.

The July term of the County union ordered the books to close the first of September. And I will give fair warning to all parties both members and outsiders that there will be no tobacco pooled after that date. It has been customary in the last few years for men on the outside to raise the buyer by threatening to pool if their price is not given them. But this will not be done this year. I would be glad for all parties to pay their dues and fees and be reinstated before Sept. 1st. Recent years it has been said the law of supply and demand governed the market. If that be true we ought to be able to get a good price for this year's crop.

Hoping the farmer will house what is left of the 1912 crop I am yours for profitable prices.

Chm. Muhlenberg Co. A. S. of E.

Kill the Fly. Why? Because—

Flies breed in manure and other filth.

Flies walk and feed on excreta and sputa from people ill with typhoid fever, tuberculosis, diarrhoeal affections and many other diseases.

One fly can carry and may deposit on our food 6,000,000 bacteria. One fly in one summer may produce normally 195,312,500,000,000,000 descendants.

A fly is an enemy to health—the health of our children, the health of our community!

A fly cannot develop from the egg in less than eight days; therefore, if we clean up everything thoroughly every week, and keep all manure screened, there need be no flies.

Will you help in the campaign against the pest?

HOT FLASHES.

Women in middle age often complain of hot flashes. They are at that stage of life—when their delicate organism needs a tonic and helping-hand which only Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can give them. Many women suffer needlessly from girlhood to womanhood and from motherhood to old age—with backache, dizziness or headache. A woman often becomes sleepless, nervous, "broken-down," irritable and feels tired from morning to night. When pains and aches rack the womanly system at frequent intervals, ask your neighbor about Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Mrs. J. L. Dent, of 211 S. Benton Street, Baltimore, Md., writes: "I wrote you about nine months ago, telling you of my condition. I have a fine baby girl—she weighed nine pounds when born. She is my third child and the strongest of them all. My suffering was only for two hours. I took several bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of Dr. Pierce's 'Smart-Weed.' I never had a real day before I took your medicine. I was surprised how well I felt—could eat—was always hungry, and never had a sick stomach. The nurse who was with me said the medicine was wonderful because I got along so nicely after having had so much trouble before. She intends to recommend it to all her suffering patients. Everybody is astonished at me because I only weighed 102 pounds before and now I weigh 135. I have had several babies come from me and ask about Dr. Pierce's medicine. I am willing to recommend it to all who suffer and want help. If any want information I will be glad to give it to them."

He Was Wrong.
"Good morning," said the demure maiden, entering the grocery store on the corner. "Do you keep oranges?"
"No, miss," replied the grocer.
The girl started for the door and had almost reached it when the facetious fellow called out. "We don't keep 'em; we sell 'em."

But he didn't sell her any, so he did keep them. Judge's library.
As to McClab.
"Some fellows make great fools of themselves. There's a young McClab working his way through college rather than ask his rich old aunt to help him."
"Yes, it's astonishing to see what ridiculous things some men will do merely to retain their own self-respect."

Stuck With Them.
"I see that Holder isn't one of your bank's most reliable and entirely trusted employees."
"Why so?"
"He's been at his desk 30 years. I notice that it's always the trusted and reliable that go away to Canada."—Browning's Magazine.

Total Loss.
"I hear your store burned down last night," said the casual acquaintance.
"I wish it had," replied the unfortunate merchant; "but it didn't; it burned up. The fire started in the basement."—Catholic Standard and Times.

The Wrong Combination.
She—Hello, Lieutenant Schmidt, you don't look up to much today. What's the matter?
He—Fact is, I've just come from the colonel's and all he gave us was weak tea and strong music.—Pittsburgh Courier.

IN SOCIETY'S REALM,

Mrs. De Style—Is she fond of her baby?
Mrs. Smith-Jones—Fancy, yes. Why, she's almost like a mother to it.

Compensation.
The man without ambition
May climb no lofty heights,
But he finds great comfort in his meals
And spends some restful nights.

Marvels of Mechanism.
"Wonderful age of invention!" exclaimed the man who got out of the cab.
"You refer to the automobile?"
"No; the taximeter. When a man wants to produce a neat job of mendacity, he does it by machinery."

Where Divorce Was Futile.
"In ancient Greece when a man was divorced the law provided that he must not marry a woman who was younger than his first wife."
"Did they ever have a divorce case in ancient Greece?"

The Reason.
"Why," asked the late cook, "are people always coming into the kitchen when I'm making bread?"
"Because," answered the facetious butler, "they think it right to come to you in your hour of knead."

Too Loud.
"That operatic basso has a powerful voice."
"Powerful? I should think so! Why, when he was singing his solo, we couldn't hear a word anybody in the box was saying."

The Explanation.
"Why is that acquaintance of yours so fond of the song of The Old Oaken Bucket?"
"Business associations. He is a milkman."

"I Suffered Intense Pains in My Left Side."

Do you realize it is better to be safe than sorry, that it is the best policy to lock the stable door before the horse is stolen?

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy cured Mrs. C. C. Gokey, of a stubborn case of heart disease, such as thousands are now suffering with. Read what she says:

"Before I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy I had been suffering from heart trouble for over five years. I had grown so weak that it was impossible for me to do thirty minutes work in a whole day. I suffered intense pains in my right side and under the left shoulder blade. I could not sleep on the left side, and was so short of breath that I thought I should never be able to take a full breath again. The last evening when I lay in bed on the most distressing position, I had scarcely taken a full breath of the Heart Remedy before I could see a marked change in my condition. I began to sleep well, had a good appetite, and improved so rapidly that when I had taken six bottles I was completely cured."
MRS. C. C. GOKEY, Northfield, Vt.

If you have any of the symptoms Mrs. Gokey mentions, it is your duty to protect yourself.

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy is what you need. If the first bottle fails to benefit, your money is returned. Ask your druggist.

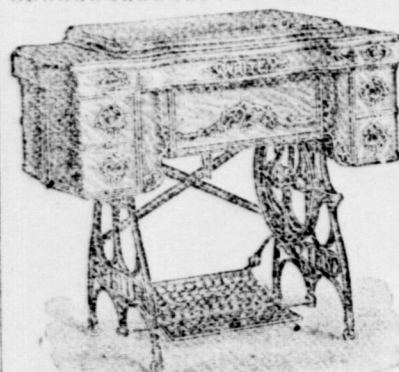

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is not a symptom of, and not to be treated as, a disease. We think of dyspepsia, heartburn, and indigestion as diseases, but they are symptoms only of a certain specific nervousness—indigestion.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop to the creation of that now very popular stomach remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought their strength and power to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without their original and healthy vitality, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had. For this reason, Dr. Shoop's Restorative, by its health and strength, and its ability to do so, will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend.
